"To the decorators of all classes who wish studies for china painting, wood, or textile decorations, these plates will be specially serviceable, as both the colors and composition are good. The iris, water-lily, sweet pea, marigold, tulip, jessamine, fuchsia, and thistle, are among the more familiar plants, while there are many others less common which it would be well to introduce as a variation from the burly and paisy that is suggested by the mere thought of a decorative art society salesroom."—Art Interchange.

The Essays on Practical Work in Art are admirable. I had read them with interest when they appeared, and deemed them valuable contributions both for the artist and the critic.—Prof. J. F. WEIR, Yale College. The publishers have done an excellent thing in issuing these valuable essays in such cheap form. It is not to the artist alone that these essays will prove valuable; the art critic should read them not once, but again and again.—Art Interchange.

For the literary or practical student of art, or for the artist, a more attractive and instructive little volume it is rare to find than the "Art Essays," by Philip Gilbert Hamerton.—New York Herald. Sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, by the publishers, A. "The object of my course of 'Cantor Lectures' was to endeavor to lead the public to think more about the artistic furnishing of their houses, to show that good art could be combined with comfort and moderate expense, and that the better and more artistic decoration and furniture of modern houses could be combined with FITNESS, COMFORT, and COMMON SENSE, without following the 'CLAP-TRAP' conventionalities and senseless eccentricities which have gone out to the world under the grossly mistaken, or rather misapplied denomination of 'HIGH ART.'—Extract from Author's Preface.
